

JUNE. IV Month.

“ Daphnis, says Clio, has a charming Eye ;
 “ What Pity ’tis her Shoulder is awry ?
Aspasia’s Shape indeed---but then her Air,
 ’Twould ask a Conj’rer to find Beauty there.
 Without a But, Hortensia she commends,
 The first of Women, and the best of Friends ;
 Owns her in Person, Wit, Fame, Virtue, bright ;
 But how comes this to pass ?---She dy’d last Night.

 New Masters court, and call the former Fool,
 (How justly !) for Dependence on their Stay,
 Wide scatter, first, our Playthings, then our Dust.

 7 Moon 11 28 2 of Port Royal, in Jamaica, was sunk by a fearful
 8 rises 12 22 3 Earthquake.
 9 A. M. 22 3 The Day was very clear, and afforded no Suspi-
 10 9 11 13 cion of the least Evil ; but in the Space of three
 11 9 36 2 5 Minutes, about half an Hour after 11 in the Morn-
 12 10 6 2 5 5 ing, that fine Town was shaken to Pieces, sunk
 13 10 37 3 47 into, and cover’d, for the greater Part, by the Sea ;
 14 11 6 4 36 7 By the falling of the Houses, Opening of the Earth,
 15 11 33 5 24 8 and Inundation of the Waters, near 2000 Persons
 16 12 4 6 19 9 were lost, many of Note.
 17 M. 4 7 15 10 For some Days afterwards, ’twas dismal to see
 18 0 48 8 10 11 the Harbour cover’d with the dead Bodies of 19 1 31 9 4 12 People of all Conditions, floating up and down

 25 9 16 2 28 5 A Sickness followed, which carried off some
 26 9 42 3 10 6 Thousands more.
 27 10 2 3 52 6 During the Earthquake, Thieves robbed and
 28 10 26 4 33 7 plundered the Sufferers, even among the Ruins,
 29 10 49 5 14 8 while the Earth trembled under their Feet. Some 30 11 14 5 56 8 were killed in the very Act by falling Walls, &c.
